THE MILITIA IN CAMP ON DUTY TO SEE THAT TRAINS GET OUT.

The Tie-Up on the Wabash Party United Sunday Night and To-Day.

Incidents of the Great Strike Since Saturday Evening. Strikers Offer No Violence and do No Damage.

TRAINS SENT TO SPRINGFIELD, CHICAGO AND ST. LOUIS WITH MAIL & PASSENGERS.

The Railway Men, Mayor Moffett, Aldermen and Sheriff Perl at a Conference Meeting.

The greatest railway strike the west has ever known is now on. It has already caused widespread trouble, and the end is not yet. Decatur did not begin to feel the effects of the tie-up until late Saturday evening, when the engineers, firemen and switchmen on the Wabash decided to quit work. It was electric action, all of the men stopping work in a body at 6:30 o'clock. At 7 o'clock, barring the signal lamps, the Wabash yards looked like a deserted race track--nothing but freight except freight cars and abandoned trains. It was so suddenly brought about that the officials did not know what to do. The train that came in from the west and east, from Quincy, St. Louis, Toledo and Chicago, were apparently abandoned by the engineers and firemen, the locomotives remaining attached to trains left on the sidetracks. Passengers were at a loss to discover the cause of the delay for which it seemed none were prepared to face. By Sunday morning there were five passenger trains tied up in the yards, and about two more which came in from St. Louis were laid out. In the evening No. 5 came down from Chicago and became tied up in the east end of the yard, and more trains came in last night from St. Louis and Chicago. Now there are seven abandoned trains in the yards, and only two have got through the tie-up since the strike locally was declared Saturday night.

500 PASSENGERS IN DECATUR.

Up to Sunday evening there were about 500 stranded passengers in Decatur, many of them thoroughly worn out by the delay. On the Sunday morning Toledo train was a lady bound from New York to St. Louis to attend the funeral of her husband that afternoon. Of course it was impossible for her to get off at Decatur. She was nearly distraught over the disappointment. In the same train were bride and groom on their way west. The railroad tie-up was not expected by them and they had a dull time of it kept in a close car switched in between freight cars on a side track. On another westbound train was a man who was under heavy bonds to appear in St. Louis this morning to testify in a murder case. He telegraphed to the prosecuting attorney here he was stranded at Decatur. He got an answer to the effect that he would have to be in court on time or the bonds would be forfeited. The message was cold comfort for him. On a Chicago-bound train which arrived Sunday morning at 10 o'clock was a man on his way to Chicago, called there by a telegram from his wife, stating that his child was in a dying state. He pleaded persistently for an engine to take him through offering to protect the engineer from violence with drawn revolver. He got considerable sympathy but no engine. In another train in Chicago was a fair looking woman with three small children, one a baby under months old, which got its food out of a nursing bottle. It was a healthy looking child but it is a question what the result will be after the change of milk.

The five hundred passengers had passed through Sunday as best they could. Very few left the cars as they had been alone by somebody and Mr. Jeffery did the conductors, brakemen, porters, express messengers and mail clerks.

in the lead. Mail cars remained on duty constantly, excepting at short intervals when they went off for meals or walked about for exercise. A meeting of the railway officials was held in Commercial block Sunday forenoon, when the passengers sent in a numerously signed petition asking that the trains be permitted to go out that the innocent passengers might reach their homes. The petition was returned with regrets, denying the request of the passengers.

LET THE STOCK OUT.

Charley Lewis, the Decatur Wabash freight agent, sent the men a letter in the name of business, asking that the perishings stock in tied-up freight cars be moved to a point where the hogs and horses could be taken out. This call was granted, and a man ran the engine which did the switching to get the stock out. There were three carloads of fat hogs unloaded. It was supposed that over 20 were dead, but only four perished. Mr. Lewis had water thrown on the hogs by a hose, brought over from No. 2 hose house, and in a short time the hogs were feeling pretty good. Subsequently they were fed. A carload of horses was taken out and also a stallion that had come near, passing a hole in the floor of the car. Several carloads of dressed beef were taken in charge by Nelson Morris & Co. In the express car were two cases of soft shell crabs and also some fish. The fish were selling pretty loud when the train pulled out for Chicago Sunday night.

CROWDS AT THE DEPOT.

Hundreds of idle railway men and thousands of citizens visited the depot and vicinity all day, many standing about looking for something to happen until evening. In the crowd were many women and children. The crowd was orderly and there was no disturbance, and at no time was there any indication of violence. Occasionally in small knots of men hot words were uttered. JERRY GLENN ARRESTED.

Early Sunday morning one arrest was effected, and Jerry Glenn, a brakeman for Dan Sullivan in the St. Louis branch, was the victim. He was taken in charge near the Jasper street crossing by Postoffice Inspector Mercer of Chicago, who had arrived at midnight Saturday to look after the mail service. The charge against Glenn was that he had interfered with the mails. Glenn was taken to the county jail. The sheriff employed Attorney Leforgee to defend Glenn. There was a general denial of Glenn's guilt, and late in the afternoon his release was secured by means of a personal promise and the signing on names of citizens to a paper pledging that Glenn could be had if wanted to appear in the U. S. district court at Springfield.

A PULLMAN WENT THROUGH.

Sunday forenoon at 9:30 o'clock, the Diamond Special on the Illinois Central arrived from Chicago six hours behind time. There was a Pullman sleeper attached tied on with steel chains fastened United States Mail locks. Inspector Mercer stood on the platform of the sleeper while a lot of men rushed forward to look at the coupling. No one attempted to disconnect the car. It could not be done without keys or sledge-hammers, and had anybody made a move, doubtless Mercer would have placed the party under arrest. The train pulled in without taking water, and stopped at the platform less than two minutes. Then it went out taking the Pullman along, the crowd standing on the track and platform to watch it out of sight. Other Pullman coaches have gone through the city in like manner on the Diamond Specials since Sunday morning. There has been no attempt made yet to detach them. The trains are well guarded by deputies, all armed to the teeth.

OFFICIALS TAKE ACTION.

Two Trains Taken Out With One Engine Bound for Chicago.

Sunday evening the Wabash officials, who said that they could move trains successfully if they could only get engineers and firemen, concluded to make a decisive move. J. B. Barnes, of Springfield, general superintendent of motive power, S. W. Jeffery, of Springfield, master-mechanic for the middle division, were in the city, the latter having arrived Saturday night, and the former Sunday afternoon on a special. Trainmaster Geo. W. Jenkins, A. H. Lander, master of transportation, and Deective Ballard, were the active spirits, with the higher officials in the plan to move the trains, and at 6 o'clock operations began. Trav. Whitel, a non-union engineer, had been secured to take the train out, but the necessary switching had to be done by somebody and Mr. Jeffery did the conductors, brakemen, porters, express messengers and mail clerks.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN

On the Relations of Rebellion,
Capital and Labor.

Last Friday E. V. Debs issued a proclamation to the American Railway Union, which was evidently intended to excite the prejudices of his subjects. Among other things, he says, for that purpose, is this:

The struggle with the Pullman company has developed into a contest between the producing classes and the money power of the country. This is what Lincoln predicted at the close of the civil war and it was this reflection that gave the great emancipator his gloomiest forebodings.

That which Mr. Debs accepts as the saying of Mr. Lincoln is a fraud and was garbled from a passage in a message transmitted to Congress, not "at the close of the civil war," as Mr. Debs says, but Dec. 2, 1861, which was repeated by Mr. Lincoln to a committee of workingmen from New York, March 21, 1864. The message was intended to show the dangerous attitude of secession to labor. The fraud was used in the campaign of 1890 and 1892 by demagogues in the attempt to prejudice the laborer against his employer and thus induce him to vote for the party which is controlled by the same people who, by rebellion, to set up a despotism over labor; the very thing Mr. Lincoln warned the workingmen to beware of in the message which has been so unjustly and designedly emasculated. [See Life, Public Services and State Papers of Abraham Lincoln—Raymond, pages 224 and 498.]

The forgery to which Mr. Debs refers reads as follows:

Monarchy is sometimes hinted at as a possible refuge from the power of the people. In my position I would be scarcely justified were I to omit exercising a warning voice against returning despotism. There is one point to which I call attention. It is an effort to place capital on an equal footing with, if not above labor, in the structure of the government. I bid laboring people beware of surrendering a power which they already possess, and which, when surrendered, will surely be used to close the door of advancement to such as they, and to fix new disabilities and burdens upon them till all of liberty shall be lost.

Then Mr. Lincoln added: "The views thus expressed remain unchanged, nor have I much to add. We are so deeply interested to resist the present rebellion as the working people. Let them beware of prejudices, working division and hostility among themselves. The most notable feature of a disturbance in your city last summer, [the draft riots in New York], was the hanging of some working people by other working people. It should never be so. The strongest bond of human sympathy, outside of the family relation, should be one uniting all working people, of all nations, and tongues and kindred. Nor should this lead to a war upon property, or the owners of property. Property is the fruit of labor; property is desirable; is a positive good in the world. That some should be rich shows that others may become rich, and, hence, is just encouragement to industry and enterprise. Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him labor diligently and build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built."

To show how dishonestly the foregoing was made up, the words used to construct the fraud are printed in italics, in the passage from the message which follows. The reader should carefully compare the message with the fraud, and also note the fact that Mr. Lincoln, in the first part, shows the relation of the rebellious states to labor, and in the latter part, shows the proper relation of capital and labor, and closes by appealing to working men not to permit the despotism of secession to succeed in changing these relations. Mr. Lincoln's theory, it will be noted, is quite different from that of Mr. Debs.

As before stated, on March 21, 1864, a committee from a New York association of workingmen, which had elected Mr. Lincoln an honorary member, waited upon him and delivered an address, to which he replied as follows:

Gentlemen of the committee: The honorary membership in your association, as generously tendered, is gratefully accepted.

You comprehend, as your address shows, that the existing rebellion means more, and tends to do more, than the perpetuation of African slavery—that it is, in fact, a war upon the rights of all working people. Partly to show that this view has not escaped my attention, and partly that I cannot better express myself, I read a passage from the message to congress in December, 1861:

It continues to develop that the insurrection [the rebellion] is largely, if not exclusively, a war upon the first principle of popular government, the rights of the people. Conclusive evidence of this is found in the most grave and maturely considered public documents, as well as in the general tone of the insurgents [the rebels]. In those documents we find the abridgment of the existing right of suffrage, and the denial to the people of all right to participate in the selection of public officers, except the legislative, boldly advocated with labor's argument to prove that large control of the people in government is the source of all political evil. Monarchy itself is sometimes hinted at as a possible refuge from the power of the people.

In my present position I could scarcely be justified were I to omit raising a warning voice against this approach of returning despotism.

It is not needed, nor fitting here, that a general argument should be made in favor of popular institutions; but there is one point, with its connections, not so hackneyed as most others, to which I ask a brief attention. It is the effort, by those in rebellion, to place capital on an equal footing, if not above labor, in the structure of government. It is assumed that labor is available only in connection with capital; that nobody labors unless somebody else, owning capital, somehow by the use of it induces him to labor. This assumed, it is next considered whether it is best that capital shall hire laborers, and thus induce them to work by their own consent, or buy them, and drive them to it without their consent. Having proceeded so far, it is naturally concluded that all laborers are either hired laborers or what we call slaves. And further, it is assumed that whoever is once a hired laborer is fixed in that condition for life.

Now there is no such relation between capital and labor as assumed, nor is there any such thing as a free man being fixed for life in the condition of a hired laborer. Both these assumptions are false and all inferences from them are groundless. Labor is prior to and independent of capital. Capital is the fruit of labor, and could never have existed if labor had not first existed. Labor is the superior of capital, and deserves much the higher consideration. Capital has its rights, which are as worthy of protection as any other rights. Nor is it denied that there is, and probably always will be, a relation between capital and labor, producing mutual benefits. The error is in assuming that the whole labor of a community exists within that relation. A few men own capital, and that few avoid labor themselves, and with their capital hire or buy another few for them. A large majority belong to neither class—neither work for others, nor have others working for them. In most of the southern states a majority of the whole people, of all colors, are neither slaves nor masters; while in the northern a large majority are neither hirers nor hired. Men with their families—wives, sons and daughters—work for themselves, on their farms, in their houses, and in their shops, taking the whole product to themselves, and asking no favors of capital on the one hand, nor of hired labor or slaves on the other. It is not forgotten that a considerable number of persons mingle their own labor with capital; that is, they labor with their own hands and also buy or hire others to labor for them, but this is only a mixed and not a distinct class. No principle is disturbed by the existence of this mixed class.

Again, as has already been said, there is not of necessity any such thing as the free hired laborer being fixed to that condition for life. Many independent men everywhere in these states, a few years back in their lives, were hired laborers. The prudent penniless beginner in the world labored for wages awhile, saves a surplus with which to buy tools or land for himself, then labors on his own account another while, and at length hires another new beginner to help him. This is the just and generous and prosperous system which opens the way to all—gives hope to all, and consequent energy and progress, and improvement of condition to all. No men living are more worthy to be trusted than those who toil up from poverty—none less inclined to touch or take aught which they have not honestly earned. Let them beware of surrendering their already possessed, and which, if surrendered, will surely be used to close the door of advancement against such as they, and to fix new disabilities and burdens upon them till all of liberty shall be lost.

Then Mr. Lincoln added: "The views thus expressed remain unchanged, nor have I much to add. We are so deeply interested to resist the present rebellion as the working people. Let them beware of prejudices, working division and hostility among themselves. The most notable feature of a disturbance in your city last summer, [the draft riots in New York], was the hanging of some working people by other working people. It should never be so. Let not him who is houseless pull down the house of another, but let him labor diligently and build one for himself, thus by example assuring that his own shall be safe from violence when built."

Then Mr. Lincoln added: "The views thus expressed remain unchanged, nor have I much to add. We are so deeply interested to resist the present rebellion as the working people. Let them beware of prejudices, working division and hostility among themselves. The most notable feature of a disturbance in your city last summer, [the draft riots in New York], was the hanging of some working people by other working people. It should never be so. The strongest bond of human sympathy, outside of the family relation, should be one uniting all working people, of all nations, and tongues and kindred. Nor should this lead to a war upon property, or the owners of property. Property is the fruit of labor; property is desirable; is a positive good in the world. That some should be rich shows that others may become rich, and, hence, is just encouragement to industry and enterprise. Sterling  TURQUOIS MARBLE RINGS,

W. R. A.

With the break of day the depot platform was yet swarming with the eight-troop and railroad men. The crowd generally were very peaceful, while every one and awhile the people would seize first one way and then another caused by exciting discussion. The presence of the Bloomington soldiers, Troop B, I. N. G., served as quite an attraction for the hundreds of young men and many older ones. Nothing of any importance transpired until Geo. W. Jenkins and Sheriff Peil ran engine 151 from the east end to the Wabash telegraph office and coupled onto some passenger coaches on side track. Geo. W. Hamer and a stranger appeared and climbing on the engine proceeded to make ready to run the accommodation to Springfield. The crowd soon gathered around the engine, and for a while it was feared an attack might be made on the train. But Detective Ballard made a circuit around the engine and drove the people from the right of way. The train then pulled west and backing in on a side-track picked up some more cars and then backed down to the depot. Engineer Hamer then got down from his cab and proceeded to oil the engine. Engineers Brown and Young stepped up and they attempted to persuade him not to go, but Mr. Hamer was immovable and remarked that he would go if it cost him every dollar he had on earth. Pushing his way through the crowd Mrs. Hamer was seen trying to reach her husband. She was kindly treated by the men. She made her way to her husband, with whom she pleaded not to make the trip, but he still refused to stop in his purpose. The fireman was a stranger and many a cutting remark was thrown at him, he didn't reply. Jenkins about this time was in the midst of the discussion on the north side of the engine, and had it not been for the appearance of the Bloomington troop clearing the track at this time it would have had to give up the outcome. The troops are under command of Capt. Taylor. The train moved off all right, without any interference, although the troops marched up and down the side of a train. This was the only train that left since 6 o'clock this morning.

There was no hilarity when the train was away, except on board the cars among the passengers. They were smiling and happy. In the crowd all was quiet, the people slowly returning to the depot and curiosity seekers going to their homes.

It was planned to send two trains in one to St. Louis, but as it was dark it was decided not to make the attempt. Mr. Jeffery took his valise and went to the St. Nicholas hotel to join Superintendent Barnes and take a rest.

Tired out.

Jenkins, Lander and Ballard were worn out with the day's work. They had been awake all night, and they got what sleep they could during the day. Lander used a cot in his office and Jenkins laid himself out on his desk. Nobody caught Ballard asleep, and Jim Gogerty, the yardmaster, seemed to be proof against the influence of Morphine. Charley Needham had a time with gangs of men used to carry water and ice to the trains. Six different gangs struck during the day. Strikers talked to the men and got them to quit.

HAD A TALK WITH BARNES.

Engineer Confer With the Wabash Official at the St. Nicholas Hotel.

A committee of Wabash engineers had a conference with Supt. Barnes in the dining room of the St. Nicholas hotel Sunday night. It ended at 10:30 o'clock.

A. B. Mars, private secretary for Mr. Barnes, was present. After the conference Mr. Barnes was seen by a reporter. He was averse to talking. He said he had been talking to all of the men all day, trying to find out what they wanted, but he would not give out the result of his investigation. He stated, however, so far as he could learn, there was early defined understanding as to what was wanted. He was preparing his report by telegraph to the press, and the reporter retired.

MEET SHERIFF AND MAYOR.

Railway Men Angry Because the Military Companies are in Decatur.

This forenoon there was a largely attended meeting of railway men held in Commercial block. It was a meeting which was attended by Mayor Moffitt, Alderman Johnson and Sheriff Perl who were invited to be present. The hall was crowded. The point under discussion was the presence of the militia in Decatur, and pointed questions were put to the sheriff, upon whom the blame was placed for having the soldiers brought here. The sheriff is represented as having stated that he only asked for permission to use the Decatur Guards; but instead Altgold had surprised him by sending five companies to the city. Mayor Moffitt made a speech which was more acceptable than Perl's remarks, and he was cheered by the men. Ald. Johnson also made a speech which bore on the condition of affairs about the depot Sunday night. Another conference meeting is to be held this afternoon.

It was stated by some of the men at the morning meeting that the Wabash men would gladly offer their services in protecting property if needed.

A TRAIN FROM CHICAGO.

Ed. Jimison Brought It Down—Ballard in Close Quarters.

This afternoon at 1:30 train 3 came down from Chicago with a Wabash official, Ed. Jimison, in charge, a non-union engineer pulling the throttle. Strikers gathered about the engine to use moral suasion but it didn't go. Detective Ballard was in the thickest of the crowd, powerful and daring, and he brought the engineer down to the depot, cleared by a great crowd. Ballard closed the depot of all intruders and protected his man.

NOTICE TO EMPLOYES

Posted at the Round House by Manager Hays.

This forenoon a notice was posted at the Wabash round house signed by General Manager Hays, calling upon all Wabash employees to report for work at noon to day, or they should consider themselves discharged. None reported for work, and under the order the men that are out are discharged.

CAUSE OF DECATUR STRIKE.

The Wabash Men Want the Old Wages Restored.

It is a wage strike in Decatur. That is what the men say, and all claim that they will stand out until the Wabash management shall restore the cut made April 1. In the early spring it will be remembered that over twenty railway companies, including the Wabash, joined in a general reduction of wages of nearly all the employes, the cut taking effect April 1. At the time the reductions were made there was muted protest. Now the men call for the old wages, and all the roads which made the cut are affected by the strike.

THE MILITARY.

The Bloomington company had every thing their own way until Company H, 5th Regiment, marched to the depot, 59 men strong. Lieut.-Col. Wells, who was in command all morning, then ordered the company to clear the depot platform, which they soon did, stationing sentinels at the depot doors, forbidding all but officials and soldiers on the platform.

MORE TROOPS ARRIVE.

At eleven o'clock the P. D. & E. train arrived from the north with the Peoria, Lincoln and Delavan troops on board. The Peoria company have 50 men under the command of Capt. E. H. D. Cox, the Lincoln company 37 under the command of Capt. Sherer, the Delavan company 40 under the command of Capt. Watkins. They all take the situation good naturally. They are in camp west of the Wabash shop, and good discipline is maintained. The militia were served with meals at the Central House.

STILL MOVING.

This afternoon between one and two o'clock another big train of coaches was made up and the train went on its way to St. Louis. Train 44 came in from St. Louis, and when it stopped Engineer Cochran got off and left the train to take care of itself. The usual large crowd hangs around the depot, attracted by the expectation of witnessing some sensational occurrence and by the presence of the u.s. marshals.

ON.

CHAN SPRINGFIELD. The village accommodation, which left Decatur this forenoon, got no further west than Springfield, where it is set up.

A DEAD ENGINE.

A train was made up at Springfield on the morning of Saturday to bring C. H. Smith, where everyone on art. Calis, residence—West Side, to Springfield. It is best to have a dead engine.

IN the annual report of the superintendent of foreign mails made public recently, the avowal is made that the ocean mail service set up March 3, 1891, "has proven a flat failure." CITY OBSERVATIONS.

"SOMEHOW," said a stroller, "no little thing impresses me more with a sense of our growing luxury than the sight of steamer chairs for children displayed in the stores in which such goods are sold."

The boys, like older people, learn something by experience. Many of them nowadays when they play ball in the street use a tennis or some other light ball, thereby saving many windows and avoiding much trouble.

"It is not usual to see pleasure carriages drawn by spider teams," said a citizen, "but I saw the other day for the first time a pleasure vehicle, it was a break, drawn by three fine horses abreast. It was a strikingly handsome turnout."

Some of the cabin men of the New York Cab company wear in stormy weather waterproof high hats made of paper, imported from Paris. They are black and of the same style as an ordinary silk hat, but very much lighter. A silk hat with a rubber cover weighs next about five pounds; a paper hat about one pound.

A FAMILY with a record of twenty-five years in two and a half years finds comfort in the assurance of a purveyor of servants that three months is to be regarded as a long stay for a epoch. Nurses and housemaids are less subject to change, perhaps, because their work is more agreeable.

AMONG the sightseers on the Brooklyn bridge one can almost always find Chinamen. They appear to be greatly interested in the mechanical construction of the bridge, pointing out to each other the cables, the trusses, struts, and each of its other parts, and seemingly discussing the whole with great attention.—N. Y. Sun.

THE ARTISTS.

The death is announced of Mrs. Gray of Bowerswell, Perthshire, Scotland, the mother of Lady Millicent, at the advanced age of eighty-four years. It was from Mrs. Gray's garden that Sir John Millais painted his celebrated picture, "The Vale of Rest."

MUNKACSY has just completed a great picture, "The Dying Christ Upon the Cross," for the mortuary chapel of the late Count Julius Andrássy. It is said to be quite equal in depth of feeling and boldness of artistic conception to my previous work of the Hungarian master.

THOMAS NAST, whose great success as a caricaturist has not killed his original desire to become a historical painter, spent last winter in the work of his heart, and produced two pictures of events of the war of the rebellion, but, all the same, he is still likely to fare more fame in black and white than in oils.—Hartford Courant.

Mrs. EUGENIA, of Bar Harbor, Me., is 83 years old, but the other day she climbed back hill, 700 feet above the surface of the lake, and wasn't even out of her exertion.

Mrs. ANNIE RAMSEY, a niece of Andrew Jackson, who was born in Algiers, a fifty-eighth year ago, died at Genoa, Alaska, June 8. Mrs. Ramsey was a field nurse during the rebellion. THE GREAT STRIKE.

Situation at Chicago and Other Points—More Trouble.

TRADES UNIONS TO BE BROUGHT INTO THE STRIKE—DEPUTY MARSHALS APPOINTED.

[SPECIAL TO THE REPUBLICAN.]

CHICAGO, July 2.—Boycott still on and extending. Twenty-two railroads now involved and practically tied up. Violence is resorted to in some cases. Trains are held up. A Rock Island train was derailed and ditched at Blue Island, Rock Island, Wabash, Eastern, Illinois and Grand Trunk railroad companies have abandoned all trains.

The Trades and Labor Assembly Sunday authorized the executive board of the organization to call out at their discretion all local trades in support of the boycott.

The mail trains are included in interference by the strikers.

Soldiers at Fort Sheridan are prepared to advance on Chicago at a moment's notice when called on by the authorities. Shields, president of the A. R. U. at Hammond, Ind., and other strike leaders were released at Indianapolis on their own recognition, on promising no further interference with trains at Hammond.

Gov. Altgeld has ordered six companies of infantry to Danville and three to Decatur to liberate the trains held by strikers. The companies called out are those at Decatur, Springfield, Peoria, Lincoln, Bloomington and Champaign.

ARMS FOR CHICAGO.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 1.—Adjutant-General Orendorff received a telegram from Sheriff Gilbert, of Chicago, to-day stating that arms were necessary for his deputies in preserving the peace in Cook county and that he had made requisition for 500 stands of arms and the necessary ammunition. Gen. Orendorff replied that he had sent 200 rifles and 1,000 rounds of ammunition and would send more in a few days if needed.

KANSAS FARMERS WILL AID STRIKERS.

EMPORIA, Kan., July 1.—The following is a part of one of a series of strong resolutions adopted by the local Farmers' Alliance here in sympathy with the American Railway Union, and the members of the lodge state that similar resolutions will be adopted by all other lodges in the state: "Our people have pork, corn, and beef on the prairie and wheat in the bins, all of which is yours."

WAUBASH STOCK.

MONTECILLO, Ill., July 1.—The blockade is complete here. The Wabash and Illinois Central have unloaded their stock at Montecillo, Bement and other places along the line, and men are caring for them until the strike is over. There is great disappointment among the people because no mail is received, as all are anxious to hear from the outside world.

QUIET AT CAIRO.

CAIRO, Ill., July 1.—The excitement of yesterday has subsided and to-day the local situation has shown a more peaceful aspect. The strikers are offering no further resistance to the running of passenger trains on the Illinois Central. Trains have been coming in at intervals to-day and the Illinois Central has moved six of the passenger trains which have been held here since the beginning of the strike. Trains on the Mobile & Ohio, Big Four and Cotton Belt roads are running regularly. The Illinois Central has not yet moved any freight trains.

FIRE INTO A TRAIN.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., July 1.—An attempt to assassinate General Superintendent Van Winkle of the Big Four railroad was made at Cincinnati last night, the particulars of which were carefully suppressed until to day. There were a number of strikers concealed behind some cars in the Cincinnati freight yard awaiting for the Indianapolis passenger when it should pull out at 8 o'clock. It was not generally known that the private car of General Superintendent Van Winkle would be attached to the train, but the road officers believe some of the strikers had learned the fact and lay in wait for the purpose of assassinating

Van Winkle. As the train passed through the yards some men darted out from behind a freight car and opened fire on the General Superintendent's coach.

In the rear seat with Van Winkle was General Solicitor Dye of this city. One of the bullets passed through the window opposite Supt. Van Winkle's head, missing him by about a foot, grazing Solicitor Dye's right ear and buried itself in the other side of the car over the head of Division Superintendent Bender. Supt. Van Winkle's family and a Mr. Orr of St. Louis, were also in the car.

The affair caused the greatest excitement in the car and the lights were soon after turned low and every precaution taken to conceal from view the occupants of the car at each station on the way to this city.

Mr. Van Winkle made a statement of the affair to the officers to-day and detectives have been sent among the strikers at Cincinnati to discover some clue to the perpetrators of the crime. Supt. Van Winkle is satisfied that he was spotted by the strikers and that the bullet was intended for him.

ORDERED OUT.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 1.—Gov. Altgeld has ordered six companies of the Illinois National Guard to Danville and three to Decatur to liberate the trains held by strikers. The companies called out are those at Decatur, Springfield, Peoria, Lincoln, Bloomington and Champaign.

THE CREEKMUR CASE.

Opening Statements to the Jury
Made by the Attorneys.

The jury was secured in the Creekmur case Saturday evening, and this morning everything was ready to begin the trial of the case. The attorneys for the state are State's Attorney Mills assisted by C. E. Lefevre, and the defense is represented by W. C. Johns and Crea & Ewing. Mr. Mills opened for the prosecution in the circuit court this forenoon.

In his statement to the jury Estate's Attorney Mills said that the state expected to make the case clear to them so that when they returned to the jury room to make up a verdict, they could do so intelligently. This case is bound to be an important one. There is but one like it in the county. We will show you beyond a doubt that a more bloody, more deliberately planned murder never was committed. When Rolla Boyd was killed there were in the stable where he was killed, him self, John Creekmur and a stallion. The defense will attempt to show that Boyd was killed by the stallion and not by Creekmur.

The relations of John Creekmur and Rolla Boyd were intimate. They were both boulders. They had been engaged in ditching. Creekmur being a commissioneer, they divided the spoils. Both were bullies, and in a sense were regarded as in their several communities. They settled disputes with their fists. Boyd at one time brought to his house an idiotic girl by the name of Mae Hart and it is alleged that while she was there John Creekmur had improper relations with the girl by force. Stella Boyd knew about these relations and subsequently when working in a ditch with one Bob Clifton told Clifton about it. Boyd did not know that Clifton was a relative of the Hart. Bob Clifton interviewed the girl and got facts from her and then revealed the fact to Boyd that he was a relative of the girl and would prosecute Creekmur. Boyd held he could not do as he, Boyd, could not be compelled to testify. A lawyer was consulted and it was found that Boyd would have to testify. This made Boyd a dangerous man for Creekmur. To add to this it is not improbable that Boyd sought to extort money out of Creekmur on account of his advantage in the situation. B. F. Shipley of Maroa, was the lawyer consulted by Boyd and Clifton, the result being that Boyd carried a letter from Shipley to Creekmur stating that serious charge had been made against him and he Creekmur, had better see him. When Boyd gave this letter to Creekmur the letter said "Why did you give me away?" Boyd denied giving him away. There was further talk between those men at the barn and Creekmur was heard to say that rather than give a lot of money he would run away. Creekmur went to Maroa in response to the letter to see Shipley. When he returned Boyd and he were in the barn together and Boyd was killed. Mr. Mills then went on to show Creekmur's actions about the time of the killing and subsequent to it and held that his actions were those of the guilty man.

Mr. Mills spoke for two hours. He was followed by Attorney Johns for the defense, who spoke one hour and twenty-five minutes. Bob Clifton was the first witness called, and was on the stand at the time of going to press.
